Women Who Wear Well. It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint scho of the charming maiden. There are two peasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weak nesses which too often come with marthat this secret drain is robbing the cheel of its freshness and the form of its

"PROTESTANTISM SPENT." Protestantism was attacked and Catholicism defended Tuesday by Rev. Frederick Burgess, of Christ Episc.pal Church in New Haven, Conn. In addressing an association of Episcapal clergymen he asserted that it could be taken as an saiom that Profestantism had spent itself and was passing, that its iduls were not of this age and that its traditional theology had been discredited. unity," he said. "for it is by nature individualistic and begets disintergration.

There are some Catholic elements in Protestantism and its schievements are many and evident. Its strong ethical emphasis has been most valuable. But lacking the Catholic balance and symmetry, it has produced sometimes a narrow and pharisaical Puritanism or an admirable Paganism -- a respectable, non-religious self-sufficiency. We want some kind of Catholicism—something which has that conception of universality and fulness. It is better to have a large aim and policy and fail to live up to it than to have a low and limited ideal. Protestantism aimed at securing freedom and rights for the individual. Having succeeded, its work is done. What is needed now is to secure the rights of the community of the social organism.'

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

While walking along a street in Ashley, a suburban place of Wilkesbarre, Pa., with his wife, Louis Diereft shot and killed her yesterday afternoon, and then blew out his brains. They had evidently been quarreling, for the man was gesticulating wildly, while his wife kept rhaking her head.

Suddenly Dieroff stopped, and, as his wife advanced, he jerked a revolver out of his pocket, and thrusting it so close to the back of her head that her hair blazed with the flame of the shot, be fired, and she pitched forward upon her face, dead.

Almost before she had fallen, and be fore any of the spectators could reach him, Dieroff thrust the still emoking revolver in his mouth and blew out his He died immediately. His wife left him two weeks ago b cause he had been drinking and went to live with her parents in Ashley.
